

Do you work
with individuals
who have a mental health condition
who may be interested in employment?

"I would not hesitate to recommend the IPS scheme
and for this process to be championed as an integral part of the Recovery Process. I hope it continues to be funded to help service users to help themselves."

How does IPS work?

- Work is fundamental in the Recovery Process: Health Professionals play a vital role in encouraging and supporting those who want to work.
- IPS has a strong evidence base proven to be highly effective in Recovery.
- Led by the Service User, it aims to match people to the career options of their choice, reflecting their hopes, aspirations, interests and skills.
- The Employment Specialist and Occupational Therapist as 'Vocational Champions' work within the clinical team to ensure a team approach to supporting people in employment.
- IPS is available to any Service User with an Employment Specialist in their clinical team.
- Motivation is a key indicator of success!
 - IPS is designed to support individuals to find and remain in work.
 - IPS includes expert benefit advice and ongoing support to both Service Users and the Employer.
